Subject Have Been Virtually
the Same for a Century.

Washington, January 31.—The United States does not intend to be drawn into any discussion as to whether it has a right to buy belligerent ships until the bill pending in the senate is enacted into law and there is a decision as to what purchases are to be made. Believing that no foreign power has grounds for any discussion with foreign governments as to whether it has a right to buy belligerent ships until the bill pending in the senate is enacted into law and there is a decision as to what purchases are to be made. Believing that no foreign power has grounds for any discussion with foreign governments as to whether it has a right to buy belligerent ships until the bill pending in the senate is enacted into law and there is a decision as to what purchases are to be made.

Washington Will Not Yield.
It is believed in official quarters that an equal distribution of the American government's purchases of British or French ships would be objectionable to the German allies. But no such plan is in the plan and any project of this kind is every indication before the pending bill becomes a law. Diplomatic phases of the question of registry will develop more concretely the views of each of the belligerents. The fact that the United States has declared that it will not surrender its right to bestow the American flag on vessels purchased since the outbreak of hostilities, if the transactions are of a bona fide character, and any project of this kind is every indication before the pending bill becomes a law.

20 CHILDREN DIED IN CRASH FOR ORPHANS AT NEW ORLEANS—FIFTY CHILDREN ARE CAUGHT IN WRECKAGE.

New Orleans, January 31.—Twenty boys and girls of from 1 to 16 years of age were injured today when a building connected with St. Alphonsus hospital collapsed under a heavy wind storm. Georgia Buckley, Columbus, 14, and Oscar Henry, 15, are in a hospital in dangerous condition. The other children received fractured limbs, bruises and cuts.

The building destroyed was a raised two-story frame structure which was being converted into a recreation building for the inmates of the orphanage. The two floors were appurtenant to the boys and girls, while the space under death had been inclosed as a playroom. The building was destroyed by a heavy wind storm. Georgia Buckley, Columbus, 14, and Oscar Henry, 15, are in a hospital in dangerous condition. The other children received fractured limbs, bruises and cuts.

Children Brought to Court.
Twenty children were brought to court after the noon hour, when the height of the storm began to have its effect. The boys having been brought to court in the chapel, the children became frantic when the building began to sway. The older ones, with no one to tell them what to do, tried to save their own safety, and thirty escaped by sliding down stairways and jumping from windows, leaving the others to shift for themselves.

The wind attained a velocity of 82 miles an hour, but with other than the collapse of the orphanage recreation house, little damage was done. Several structures were damaged, and electric and telephone lines put out of commission and a small tug moored to a wharf on the water front, was blown down.

THREE STATES STRUCK BY STORM.
Dallas, Texas, January 31.—The eastern portion of Texas and parts of Arkansas and Oklahoma today felt the effects of a severe wind storm. At Tyler, Texas, and Malvern and Garland City, Ark., assumed the proportions of a hurricane. No serious damage to life or property was reported.

No death had been reported tonight. Texas, Texas, and Arkansas, reported the greatest property damage. At Tyler, Texas, estimated at approximately $150,000 and at Malvern $100,000. Rome, Ga., January 31.—(Special.)—The eight-year-old child of Mr. and Mrs. George Turner had a narrow escape from death when it got hold of a bottle of liniment and drank a liberal amount of the contents. The child was taken to the hospital, where it was found that the child had drunk a liberal amount of the contents. DESIGN OF THE RADDS MADE BY GERMAN BRITISH TRADE SHIPS

Two British Merchant
Steamers Have Been Torpedoed and Sunk in the Channel and Three Have Been Sent to Bottom in the Irish Sea.

London, January 31.—The toll taken by the German submarine U-11 in the Irish Sea on Saturday in the Irish Sea, in the vicinity of Liverpool, still stands at three ships—the steamers Ben Cruachan, Linda Blanche and the Kilcoan, the last a small vessel. The Kilcoan's crew was landed today on the Isle of Man, by a coastwise steamer. In addition a German submarine also has torpedoed two British steamers in the English channel near Havre—the Tokomaru and the Icaria.

The Irish sea raider escaped and shipping interests, confident she has returned to base, ordered a resumption of normal traffic today.

This under-water koden is the vessel which on Saturday torpedoed the Ben Cruachan, Linda Blanche and the Kilcoan, the last a small vessel. The Kilcoan's crew was landed today on the Isle of Man, by a coastwise steamer. In addition a German submarine also has torpedoed two British steamers in the English channel near Havre—the Tokomaru and the Icaria.

The Tokomaru and Icaria
TORPEDOED IN CHANNEL.
Paris, January 31.—The French minister of marine announced today that a German submarine had torpedoed two British ships in the English channel, the Tokomaru and the Icaria. The Tokomaru was bound from New Zealand to England. Her crew was rescued by the French destroyer Le Laperoux.

The Tokomaru was a vessel of 3,272 tons. She sailed from New Caledonia, New South Wales, on October 19. Shipping records make no mention of the Icaria. The Icaria was an Admiral class submarine, which was sunk October 26 while on her way from Calais to Havre with Belgian refugees, of whom forty lost their lives.

BREAD QUESTION
WORRIES EUROPE

Italians Protest Against High Prices—Austrians Put on Short Rations—Prices Advancing in England.

Rome, January 31.—A royal decree issued today suspends the duty on cereals and flour. The duty already had been reduced more than half. The decree declares that if it is necessary wheat will be transported on the railways and steamships at half rates. The decree authorizes the government to ascertain the quantity of cereals in private storehouses and whether it is necessary to govern the manufacture and sale of bread.

Notwithstanding the decree and the measures adopted by the government a meeting was held at the Labor exchange today to protest against the high price of bread. It was charged that the high price was due to the government being unable to prevent continental wheat from going to the belligerents.

A resolution was passed, declaring the agitation would continue until the people were able to "impose on the speculators what the government is unable to impose under the law."

The resolution was considered to mean the forcible confiscation of wheat and its distribution among the people.

BREAD PRICES HIGH.
In Great Britain.

London, January 29.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—The abrupt increase in food prices in Great Britain has been a source of concern to the labor element, and has led to the bringing of the matter before parliament.

Bread has increased in price in price. The effect of this on the poor is drastic. All agencies concerned blame some of the causes.

Ship owners say that the supply of ships is not equal to the demand. It is true, however, that longer and less direct voyages made necessary by the war have had a marked effect on freight rates.

BREAD IS SCARCE
IN DUAL MONARCHY.

Vienna, January 31.—(Via London.) The Vienna Zeitung published a ministerial decree ordering that henceforth wheat may contain not more than 50 percent of flour or cereal. The remaining ingredients must consist of substitutes such as barley, maize, oats, rice or potatoes.

GERMANY REDUCES BEER RATION.

Amsterdam, January 31.—(Via London.)—The federal council has decided, according to the Nieuw-Amsterdamer, to curtail by one-quarter the beer rations on the cultivation of beet root for the current year.

VICTIMS OF EXPLOSION ON CRUISER SAN DIEGO

San Diego, Cal., January 31.—The United States cruiser San Diego arrived here today from Mexican waters with the bodies of two of the victims of the boiler explosion ten days ago which has taken a toll there of nine lives.

After funeral services aboard the cruiser today the two bodies were placed on the auxiliary Saturn with those of the seven other victims. The Saturn sailed for Mare Island navy yard, whence the bodies will be sent to the men's homes.

POSTAL SAVINGS BANKS DOING BRISK BUSINESS

Washington, January 31.—More than one hundred thousand persons have been added to the list of postal savings bank depositors since the department was begun in December last. Deposits at the rate of nearly $1,000,000 a month. Officials believe this rate of increase is a sign of the confidence of the country in the postal savings banks.

Figures made public tonight by the government department showed the total amount of deposits with postal savings banks by December 31 was $25,200,000 to the credit of 475,000 people.

Until the war began deposits had increased at the average of $1,000,000 a month. During the six months from July 1 to January 1 the increase was $1,750,000. Last August $2,000,000 was added to the deposits total.

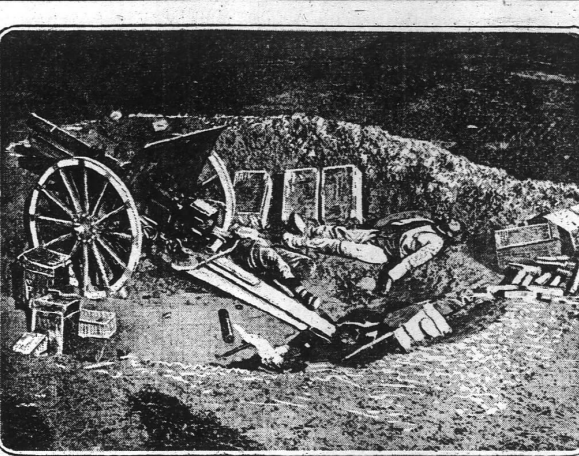

Saving Money in Dull Times.
(From The Wall Street Journal.)

A western railroad in 1912 bought some heavy freight locomotives and paid $27,000 an engine. In 1914 the same road purchased more of the same general type and paid $22,000 each. The locomotives bought in 1914 were finished better than those purchased two years before and were generally a better machine. It takes dull times to bring about the bargain.

Tragic Episode of War in Serbia Graphically Told

With Bayonets and Fists
British Soldiers Stopped
Charges by the Germans

One "Tommy" Bayoneted Four Germans and Captured Four, All the Time Sucking at His Clay Pipe. Desperate Fighting Near La Basse Canal.

London, January 31.—"Our men in many cases fought with bayonets and even knocked out many Germans with their fists. A story is told of one man who broke into a house held by eight Germans, bayoneted four and captured four, while he continued to 'suck at his clay pipe.'"

The battle, which commenced early in the morning, was preceded by the usual artillery duel.

Met With Cold Steel.
"At a stroke in the morning," says the eyewitness, "the Germans assaulted the British and French south of the canal and at one point penetrated our lines. About the same time they attacked Giverny, north of the canal, passing over our front trenches, temporarily gained a foothold in the place. But at their infantry, surged forward our men met them with cold steel, killing 100 with the bayonet."

The fighting then proceeded for some hours at close quarters, but by noon we had recaptured the whole of our original trenches around the village. The Germans showed the utmost determination, delivering no less than five attacks on the northeast corner of Giverny. Five hundred were heavy, several scattered bodies which had penetrated our line being killed practically to a man. Our casualties were comparatively light.

"Meanwhile on the south of the canal the struggle was continued furiously throughout the day. The Germans advanced along the main road, were caught by our machine guns and left a great ground littered with dead to the estimated number of 500. As they came along the road they were also subjected to machine gun fire and suffered heavily. But as has been said, they penetrated our line at one point."

Fought Hand-to-Hand.
By a counter-attack, however, undertaken by our men, in co-operation with the French, the allies drove them back. Though we did not win back our original position we established ourselves in a front line close behind it.

A great part of the area where this fighting took place consists of brick fields, where the adversaries fought hand-to-hand the day we captured fifty-three prisoners, including two officers.

The total casualties of the Germans are reported to have amounted to more than a thousand in their effort against our line. Against the French also, south of us, their attacks were repulsed with slaughter. They also attacked the French post of Ypres in the neighborhood of Zonnebeke. Here they were repulsed with ease in an attempt at a surprise, leaving 100 dead hanging on wire entanglements.

"On the whole," it may be said that the enemy in this portion of their line, they were not so successful as in the small gains they achieved."

Requiem Mass Held for Quake Victims.
AVERAHO, Italy, January 31.—(Via Rome.)—Monsignor Bagnoli, bishop of Aversa, today inaugurated a requiem mass, in which a solemn requiem was said for earthquake victims.

All the civil and military authorities attended the funeral. The bishop said prayers for the dead. The bishop said prayers to King Victor Emmanuel, the Queen Helena and Pope Benedict for all who perished in the earthquake district.

A Pertinent Query.
(From Judge.)
"Mamma, when people are in mourning, do they wear black nightgowns?"
"Why, no, of course not."
"Well, don't they feel just as bad at night as they do in the daytime?"

PLANNING TO DESTROY
VILA-ZAPATA FORCES

Gen. Carranza's Army Expected to Move Vigorously During This Week.

Vera Cruz, January 31.—General Carranza's army is expected, beginning this week, to endeavor to force to an early conclusion its offensive campaign against the Villa and Zapata forces.

The belief is expressed at the Carranza headquarters that defections from the enemy's forces will make the campaign comparatively easy. Large numbers of Zapata men, it is said, have offered their services to Carranza.

Reports that Villa is losing many minor leaders, in addition to one or two men of more importance, continue in circulation here.

Carranza and his counselors expect to issue more decrees concerning promised reforms. One is expected to deal with concessions granted by former administrations. Of the decrees issued last week the one that creates the widest interest empowers the government to appropriate any work done by private persons or corporations along zones paralleling waterways which are private federal zones.

The Mexican railroad is latest between here and Mexico City and train service with the capital is expected to be resumed tomorrow.

DENIED THAT VILLA HAS BEEN WOUNDED.
Washington, January 31.—Denial of reports that General Villa had been seriously wounded was received at the state department today from the American agent, Carothers, at El Paso. Carothers said that Villa himself, at Aguas Calientes, yesterday telegraphed that he was all right and had not been injured. Carothers is the department's special agent and has been traveling with Villa.

Francisco Villa Reported Shot and Seriously Wounded.
San Francisco, January 31.—General Francisco Villa reported shot and seriously wounded, was seen yesterday by passengers arriving there today from Aguas Calientes, where Villa recently established headquarters. Apparently he was not suffering from a serious wound.

Preliminary fighting is reported at Queretaro, where General Lucio Blanco is said to have attacked the Villa garrison under General Manuel Chao. The outcome is not known here.

An aeroplane was shipped today from Juarez for use by Villa troops. The Carranza forces also have aeroplanes.

LIQUOR IS DEADLOCKING
ILLINOIS LEGISLATURE

Springfield, Ill., January 31.—The record-breaking speakership deadlock in the Illinois legislature found the liquor issue still blocking all efforts toward a formal organization of the house. The deadlock has lasted just four weeks.

The announcement yesterday of the withdrawal from the speakership race of W. M. Provin, republican caucus nominee, is said to mean that the pledge that held together most of the republican majority in the house is broken and that the contest now will assume the nature of a free-for-all fight, although every effort will be made to avoid a bi-partisan combination.

The Holland Letter

When a Jew was asked if he believed that the cause was due to the war in Europe he instantly replied that but for the war in Europe the situation would have been different. He is a member of the American Jewish Merchants' association. In co-operation with an organization of which Judge B. H. Levy, of the United States steel corporation, is chairman, is now seeking diligently for means of relieving temporarily the great distress which prevails. The situation is unduly pitiful because so many of those who are out of employment are persons who are reasonably proud and who do not want to accept charity, seeking only some employment which will enable them to pay their bills.

way from day to day. Mr. Mead was inclined to think that some portion of this stress may be traced to excessive or drag-legislation which affects business, for that has made capital timid and therefore tended to depress industrial activity. At one of the Fifth avenue churches he is furnished every way an object lesson which appeals to the sympathy of all

There is a large basement in this church and it is given over to the rector that it might be conveniently utilized so as to furnish some place to those who are in actual distress. He was, however, therefore, to persons whom he saw were of kindly disposition and raised the sum of some $3,000. The basement was fitted up as to be a convenient workshop those who applied for aid. Work was not for them. Much of it was in the form of hand-made garments or other accessories of the kind that stimulate the imagination. The workers are paid at the rate of 10 cents an hour and are permitted to work five hours a day. They receive at the noon hour a substantial luncheon—soup and coffee with bread and butter—and are reckoned a part of their pay. So small a sum as $0.25 is gladly received. It enables those to get the money and who have no homes to secure lodging for a night and to have a meal. For those who have families, 50 cents means at least some food. So successful has this undertaking proved itself to be that it is the intention to employ 100 men and secure daily employment of modest kind. Almost all of those who are applied for work are persons who only were accustomed to the refinements of life, but who shrunk from asking for pity and who felt that their self-respect must be maintained if they worked and received as small an amount as 50 cents a day for that work. Some of them were young men of education, graduates of colleges, who had been in dire distress.

Other ways of amelioration of distress are in a form which will make it possible to maintain self-respect are being perfected.

The Foundations Investigation. It is thought to be an opportune moment at this time that there should be under way authoritative investigation in the industrial situation so far as that is represented the relation of labor to capital. Witnesses who have achieved national reputa-

As men of influence, some of them have apparently given in all sincerity their views as to the causes of unrest and to the remedy. So far none of them has taken with any other words than those of commendation of the establishment of the great foundations, so called, principally, which are identified by the names of Rockefeller, of Carnegie, and of Sage. None of these men apprehends the slightest peril to our democratic-republican form of gov-ment, through any activity carried on by the foundations. So far, the testimony has been unanimous that they have been managed with the highest business skill, with excellent judgment and with loyalty to the principles upon which the foundations have been organized. One of the witnesses has gone so far as to say that some of the officials under the authority of the national or state governments have not been regarded with the skill, impartiality and

As interesting a witness probably as will rear before the commission was Daniel Guggenheim, who has gained rank as one of the leaders of the industrial forces of the United States. Not until this commission did he appear as a witness. There has been any opportunity to obtain from Mr. Guggenheim any authoritative way his opinion re-ing industrial unrest as well as its cause and its remedy. He was disclosed on the witness stand to be a profound thinker upon this question, looking at it from two points of view—one that of the men interested in the welfare of his country, and the other that of the business man seeking to learn what the best business methods are. Mr. Guggenheim finds that the best is in part due to the high cost of living in this country, and that the other is because he is also one of the few who dare to that it is in part due to envy. Some philosophers have asserted that the avaricious is a disturber of the peace of mind of those who cannot possess one is partially accountable for the unrest. Mr. Guggenheim lives in legislation, but also that it should be wise legislation, and he goes so far as to say that he is firmly of the opinion that it is the imperative duty of the state, in dealing with the federal government, the states of the union and the municipalities.

the care of those who are idle from no fault of their own. He admits that this is a form of socialism, but he believes that it is socialism which is fully justified.

Views of Perkins.

The meeting of this commission has furnished the best recent opportunity for an exposition of the views of George W. Perkins respecting the industrial situation. Mr. Perkins retired from active life, announcing that it was his purpose to de-himself thereafter as far as he could for the public good, many were the cynical remarks which his announcement occasioned. But as time has passed it has become evident that Mr. Perkins spoke with verity. He has given practically all of his time to public service. It was due to his organizing ability that the great endowment for the Young Men's Christian association work was recently secured. His time was much occupied with attempting to solve problem of the high cost of living and solve it as to teach the community how wise economies and prudent conduct in markets, they can considerably reduce cost of food. It is chiefly due to his that New York is now establishing a prehensive system of free markets.

Although it seemed apparently to some heard Mr. Perkins testify before this mittee that he was expressing some new a, nevertheless much of what he said already been spoken of by him in various addresses. For instance, Mr. Perkins that he takes issue with those who believe that in this day competition is the life-raft. Competition, he believes, gave us sweatshop, child labor, long hours of work and insanitary conditions. In his view, competition established by large industrial plants, thoroughly supervised and regulated by the federal government, is the true American method, and it is one which will be ment both to capital and labor.

Mr. Perkins has also in a few words expressed a sentiment which so widely prevails among business men of the United States. He said that for every ounce of trouble brought about in industry by the selfishness and cupidity of business men there has been a pound of trouble brought on by half-baked laws and muttonhead legislation. Men are actually engaged in business, especially those who are in the management of large affairs, might not venture to speak mainly as this.
